Introspective

The Pine Knot has long been a tradition at Grove City High School and so has the format of the book. But now, the 1986-87 Pine Knot Staff is branching into new and dynamic forms in this, the latest edition of the Pine Knot.

This new format reads very much like a magazine, which makes it much easier and more enjoyable to leaf through, instead of the traditional format. Each of the four sections are divided according to season; Summer; Autumn; Winter; and Spring; making it much easier to locate an event or subject. The idea behind this change is just that, a change for the better to make this the best book ever produced by a Pine Knot Staff.

We sincerely hope that this book captures the spirit of the 1986-87 school year. When you look back five, ten, fifteen, or twenty years from now, may your thoughts be turned to these wonderful days at G.C.H.S.!!

Enter The New . . .

By Andy Fair

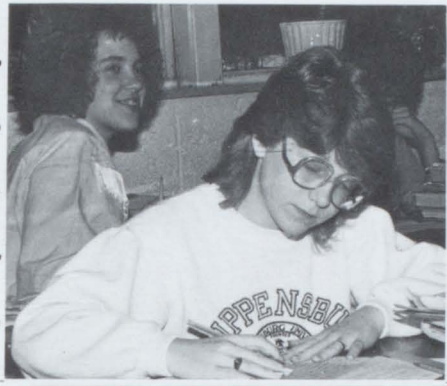

As the 1986-87 school year slipped away, each one remembered their special moments and special feelings. For some it may have been a year to open doors and experience independence, while for others a year to cling to those things familiar and secure. Feelings may have been of victory, excitement, and joy, or perhaps of loss, stagnation, and sadness.

Whatever our memories, someday we will look back and realize the importance of the 1986-87 school year. And if nothing else, we will know what was experienced - cannot be repeated, what was lost - cannot be found, and what was gained - helped to get us to where we are today.

Exit The Old?

The end of Hot Weather means school

The doors opened at 7:45 A.M. that September third morning and Nine-Hundred souls filled with new hope, great anticipation and much apprehension entered to start the new school year. After playing and enjoying the softness and easiness of summer, brains once again had to become active and enter autumn. Freshmen did not know what to expect, Sophomores were enthralled with the thoughts of new beginnings, Juniors seemed happy to open this new chapter in their young lives and Seniors thought of those past years and the new experience of college and life facing them. This year became a progressive and relentlessly renewing year, which seemed to go so very quickly. It was a year of joy; a year truly to remember forever.

*The seasons have rotated again . . .
It is barren once more.
A silence of sadness,
Yet a wind of a thousand whispers brings
Evil chill to the naked earth.
Heavy air separates each confused decision.
The "breeze" of honesty' enfeebles my vulnerable
Soul and paranoia instantly paralyzes every falacy.*

Pandemonium EXPLODED

As the energized Eagles started racking up the points.

The fans came to the field October 31 expecting another disappointing defeat. The predictions were in; playoff bound Northwestern was to demolish Grove City. Throughout the year, the high expectations of the team deteriorated, producing broken-hearted players with bruised and battered bodies. This game was an exception to the usual. Pandemonium exploded as the Energized Eagles started racking up the points, causing Northwestern a humiliating upset. From the first quarter, teamwork was the dominating factor. Grove City's awesome offense penetrated through Northwestern's defense line at will. They moved the ball up the field both on the ground and in the air scoring the most points in a single game since 1975. The determined defense played a typical game holding their opponents to a minimal amount of yardage, exemplifying their brute strength. Our boys of winter drove the final score to an exhilarating 41-19. The overwhelming team effort gave the departing Seniors a memorial exit and an inspiration for next year. By Vicci Riede

New Spirits Spark Dramatic Turnabout

The new uniforms of the energized Eagles made the team look good but what really counted were the feelings underneath. Because the team wasn't playing together mentally as well as physically until the end of the season, their record was what ultimately suffered. When the final games drew closer surprisingly so did the teammates. Some of the players expressed their excitement for the team with new haircuts. Others just played their best. Because of the newly developed emotions between the players, their suppressed potential was unleashed, devastating unexpecting Erie Strong Vincent.

A Special Feeling

Queen Gigi

As night crept in on that cool Friday evening of October tenth, a special feeling was in the air. A large crowd filed through the gates to see the Grove City Eagles play, but this wasn't just another football game, it was Homecoming 1986! The crowd awaited the homecoming ceremony with excitement as they watched the first half of the game. At halftime, spirits were high as the Eagles were winning. The moment we had all been waiting for was now upon us. The blaring of trumpets and the beating of drums started the festivities. The band performed with pride as they marched into their places for the crowning ceremony. Silence grew at the sight of Queen Gigi Highland and her Court. The princesses were dressed in elegant gowns of emerald, ebony and ruby, while Gigi wore a radiant gown of ivory. Gigi was crowned by 1985 Homecoming Queen, Amy McNickle. The ceremony was brought to a close with the band playing "Cherish", which brought tears of happiness to all who watched the festivities. As the second half of the game ended, the team walked off the field heartbroken for they had lost. But despite the loss, there was still a special feeling in the air and a fond memory of that magical night in October.

Practice Makes Perfect

by Edith McFeely

"Let's go back to the beginning and do it again!" shouts first year band director Mr. John Harbarka through his bullhorn. Loud moans and groans could be heard from almost every marching band member on the practice field. They know deep in their hearts that all of the work will be worth it when they hear the booming applause from the audience.

Practice was a key part of our 1986 Grove City High School Marching Band's success. Band Camp was the second and third week in August. The following week they polished their show and were ready for their first performance. From then on they stayed after school at least twice a week, working on their halftime shows or parade marching. This year instead of only four songs, there were approximately eleven different songs played in numerous shows. Despite the football team's losses, the band still had fun and performed at its best. "Band this year meant a lot of work. We had a new director, and we seemed to get more accomplished. All in all we had a great year!", said senior Darren Morton. The Grove City High School Band was a perfect example of the saying "practice makes perfect."

DRUM MAJORS KEN Ryan and Lisa Riede look over halftime instructions while the band practices outside. Directing the band and sorting and passing out music were a few of their many duties.

after a grueling week of exercising, passing, running, and learning plays, the Senior and Junior girls were ready for Powder Puff. Courageousness and determination were displayed on the girls's faces as they ran down towards the wet muddy field on November 8, 1986. Shouts of "victory", "get psyched", and "kill'em" were heard by all bystanders as the girls approached their benches. The final countdown for Powder Puff 86' had begun, and both teams wanted to win more than anything.

Although the Juniors were predicted to win, the Seniors pulled through with a victory. The Senior MVP's of the game were Becky Yeager, defensive, and Marya Louise, offensive, scoring three of the four Senior touchdowns. Cathy Curshall scored the other touchdown after receiving a pass from Donna Myford. The Junior MVP's of the game were Julie Yeager, defensive, and Sarah Barr, offensive, scoring the Junior touchdown.

ANDY MATTHEWS, Senior Cheerleading Captain, cheered the Seniors on to Victory.

ALTHOUGH THE ODDS were against the Seniors, Marya Louise and Donna Myford celebrated after an exhausting battle.

Exceeding Expectations

The Lady Eagles climb the ladder of success

The Lady Eagles Volleyball Team put together an astounding season this year. With the character that each of these girls displayed, the team definitely exceeded all of the coaches and fans expectations. The team ended their regular season with a record of 16-4. This record placed them third in the District 10 AAA standings. It also qualified them as one of the sixteen teams to go to the state tournament. This makes them only the second athletic team in the history of Grove City High School to advance to the state level of competition.

Throughout the season each girl learned from their mistakes and came back with that winning spirit and attitude. This was evident with Michelle Sreigerwald's performance during the state semifinal game against Corry. The Lady Eagles had previously lost a heart-breaking game against West Middlesex, which would have led to a tie for the Mercer County League Champion. Leaving the disappointment behind, they came back strong with power spiking by Michelle Sreigerwald to defeat Corry and qualify for the state tournament. They were a group of girls who definitely tried their best, and it all paid off!

Coach Shawnee Denbow comments, "The main ingredient of our success? Superb girls with great attitudes and teamwork. Winning is not the most important aspect of athletics. Always performing your best, getting along together, and having fun will bring success. This years team did that and that is why we bear the best."

It all began on the morning of November seventh. The dreams of the Lady Eagles Volleyball Team flourished in their minds as they travelled to Edinboro, with the supporting exclamations of the student body and administration behind them.

The competition began early Saturday morning and lasted well into the afternoon. The girls came back strong after a rough defeat against Baldwin to defeat the number one placed team, Nanticoke, but then fell to a heartbreaking defeat against Plymouth-Whitmarsh.

Throughout the day the girls used their special teamwork as their strategy, but the individual efforts of certain teammates cannot go without mention. Renea Surrena played every game with few substitutions; her constant setting was very valuable to the team. Kirsten Ellison's overall performance kept the team together during the most crucial competition. She not only spiked and blocked the ball, but she also played exceptionally good defense.

3-Dimensional Golf Team

Golfers did not need screaming spectators, blasts from pep bands, or chants from short-skirted cheerleaders on the quiet stretches of fairways and putting greens. Our 1986 Grove City High School Golfers were supported by three inner motivating forces: Dedication, Drive and Determination.

Dedicated players, Ryan Elliot and Dave Mowery, concentrated on golf the entire summer by dolly practicing their game at the Country Club. Both Shawn Sowers and Al Montgomery teed off each day in their backyards to get as much practice time as possible. As the season progressed, team dedication enabled Eagle Golfers to improve their scores dramatically.

Another key factor for the team's success was drive to excell. Although Stan Miller and Mike Whalen had earned positions as starters, they worked hard during the season to improve their form and scores. Contrary, Kent Butler and Curtis Ifft were not in the top six, but tirelessly practiced to drive and putt more accurately to prepare themselves just in case Coach Clarke needed them.

At the season's beginning, Ron Elford was not one of the starting six. But, through sheer determination, by midfall, he was swinging with the other top five starters. "Ron Elford's determination really made a difference in the team's total performance", said Coach Clarke. Another determined golfer was Doug Dannels. As the number one player, his game continually sharpened by seeking out and practicing with stiff competition during pre-season work-outs.

Coach Clarke stressed that dedication, drive and determination not only would produce a winning season (9-5), but also yielded lifetime dividends. "Golf is a character building sport. It matures one not to blame others for his own failure or success."

Athletes Endure Unusual Practices

The secret to performing well in a Cross Country season comes from vigorous workouts. Various Cross Country runners commented about some practices experienced over the years. These runners remain anonymous.

The questions asked were, "Have you ever skipped out of a practice when told to run and didn't? What did you do instead of practice?"

"Yes, when I skipped out, I went to the Cross Country course and swung on grapevines."

"Yes, I went home to watch television or play basketball with the team at the Jr. High School. See, I would run to the school, play basketball until 4:45-5:00 p.m. then run back to the High School."

"Yes, towards the end of my eleventh grade season I had a bad cold, and I couldn't run the practices with the rest of the varsity team. One day, John Doe and I went to the Rec. Center and lifted weights instead of running."

"Yes, some friends and I went the Cross Country course and engaged in a battle of mud throwing."

Although these comments express the experiences of a few, they don't express the experiences of all the runners. Throughout the season there were many great performances from some very determined and dedicated runners.

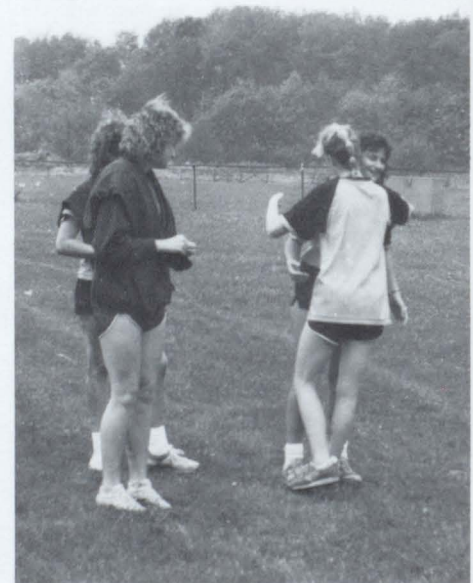

ANXIOUSLY AWAITING THE gun to go off, both teams listen attentively to last minute instructions. Mr. Sample informs both teams of the course conditions and the approximation of the finish line.

COMRADERY WAS SHOWN throughout the year by simple expressions of caring. Priscilla Arwell and Leslie Saunders look on as Susie Mapes and Marya Louise embrace after a difficult race.

CONVERSATION IS A prime factor in relaxation before a race. Ross Headrick, Alex Price, Dave Straub, Jason Reeher and Kevin Closson talk over strategies that can be used in the upcoming race.

Matchmaker

There is more to a play than Friday and Saturday night performances. Once auditions are held and the cast is chosen, the process then leads into the rehearsals which include blocking, memorization, polishing, run-thrus, technical, dress and make-up, and finally performance. There is more behind the scenes than nervous actors.

The first two weeks were spent blocking the play. Saskia Davis, the stage manager, was concerned with every action an actor made. The actors learned where to go on what line and where to turn, sit, stand and so forth.

The next two weeks were spent memorizing lines. No scripts were permitted on stage. The actors did their best to remember their lines and remember where to go or what to do while they said their lines.

Advisor Miss Berky says, "I want the actors to analyze their characters and understand the world that the character lives in. Acting is much more than just moving and memorizing lines. We work to create believability and atmosphere. Acting is a difficult art. It takes energy, thinking and creativity." Therefore, each actor polished his or her character through emotions, gestures and the perfection of an overall attitude.

The run-thru rehearsals were a test for the actors. They were not only running their lines and moving, but also doing these things as someone else, their character. If I may fall back to the phrase . . . practice makes perfect . . . and it sure did. Characters were being perfected from an idea . . . to a living person.

There were many crews working on the set for the Matchmaker. The sets were wooden. They needed people to paint them and later to turn them during scene changes. There were a numerous amount of props acquired for atmosphere. There were girls who worked on finding costumes and personal props that each actor needed. (Of course, the actors helped out in the aspects of backstage preparation as well.) The light crews adjusted lights, focused them and practiced their changes. Everything from house lights and curtain to scenery changes were practiced over and over.

The make-up and dress rehearsals were the final steps before the performances. Thick make-up was layered on the actors. Each age line was drawn on . . . Each item from feathery hats and gloves to bow ties and top hats were added to the costumes . . . The actors did their best as if these last rehearsals were the actual performance.

This is a general view of all the hard work, long hours, dedication, energy, and talent that was behind the scenes to present the magnificent play, The Matchmaker.

. . . Lisa Riede

TALKING TO THE audience, Dolly Levi, Lisa Riede, expresses her opinion of money and glores for marching Mr. Vander-gelder up with no one else but . . . herself.

YELLING AT HIS head clerk is one of the many ways Mr. Vander-gelder, Matt Beatty, displays his constant rage throughout the play.

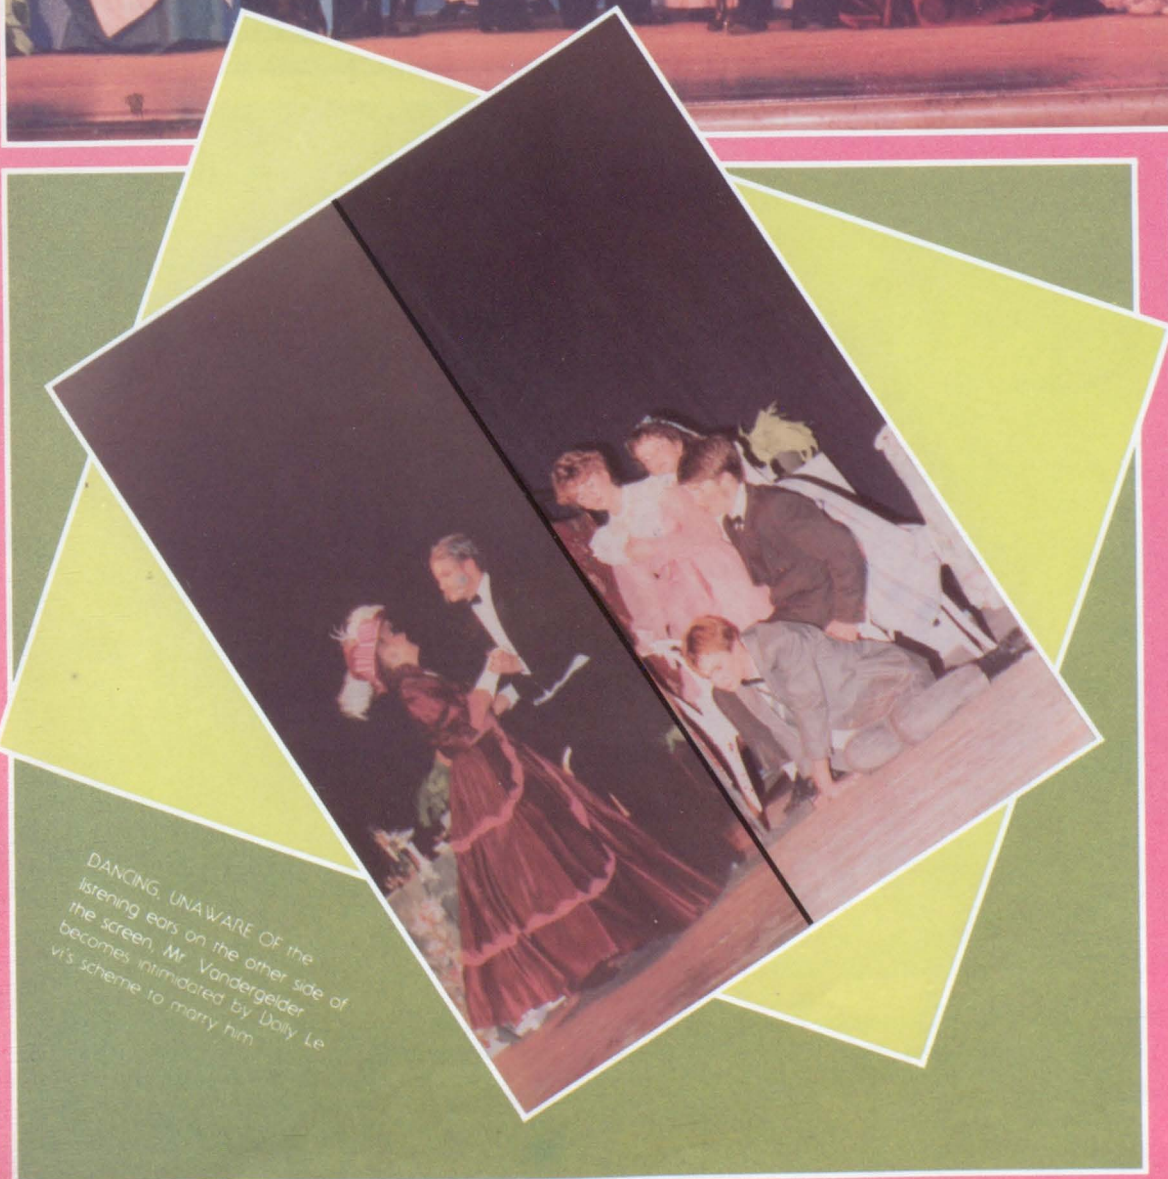

FEAR STRICKEN Cornelius Hackl, Jeff Soder-gren, spies his employer outside the win-dow, who would discharge him for being in New York.

DISGUISED AS A GIRL, Barnaby Tucker, Ken Ryan, did his best to discourage Miss Van Husan from giving him a bath and slapping him all over.

THE MATCHMAKER CAST: Sirring, B. Dayton, S. Mapes, M. Beatty, L. Riede, M. Brown, D. Morton, J. Duska, Standing, D. Coverr, T. Hoffman, E. VanTil, M. Sowash, K. Ryan, J. Sodergren, D. Rice, S. Duda, M. Watson.

DANCING, UNAWARE OF the listening ears on the other side of the screen, Mr. Vandergelder becomes intimidated by Dolly Levi's scheme to marry him.

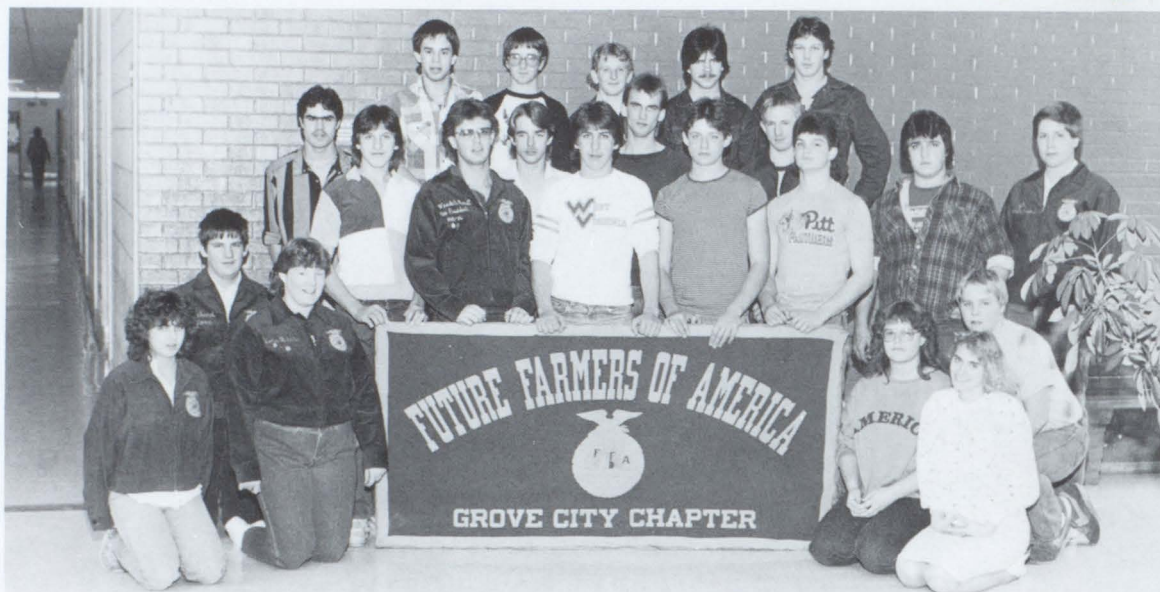

HOLDING THE BOX of candy which Mr. Vandergelder presented to her, Mrs. Molley, Dora Rice, daydreams how nice it would be to be married to Cornelius Hackl instead.

Future Farmers of America

Future Farmers of America is a nationwide organization for students who are interested in studying agriculture and furthering their knowledge of the subject. However, the main goal of FFA is to produce good citizens. The organization was led by Mr. Doyer.

Intramural Tennis

Due to the growing interest, Grove City High has adopted an Intramural Tennis program. Matches were held at the Rec. Center after school and on Saturdays. Students placing first, second, and third in their divisions were awarded trophies at the end of the season. Intramural Tennis was a rewarding experience for all who played.

Future Business leaders of America

This year the talented FBLA members were busy by contributing to the community and various other organizations. They have worked hard through many money making projects to help those in need. Some of the money they made went towards the child find project. During the holidays they decorated a Christmas tree downtown to help collect food for the needy. Through their hard work and dedication they have given tremendous support to several charitable causes.

"Theater is the most aggravating way to have fun!" Anyone who has ever worked on stage or backstage on a play production will understand what that means. It takes a rare breed of character and dedicated people to devote months of long, hard hours in rehearsal in return for a few short minutes of applause. Is it worth the effort? YES! The theater doors are open to anyone who is not afraid of hard work, is eager to learn, and would like to have lots of fun. The productions this year were a big success due to the group effort of drama club members and other interested theater students. Auditorium functions and assemblies ran smoothly due to the eleven stage crew members who used their technical expertise to run lights, sound, and set up the stage for various programs.

Yes, the hard work and long hours can be aggravating, but working with G.C.H.S. theater students is great and lots of fun!!

THE SATURDAY SCIENCE OFFICERS HELPED organized their trip to Canada they took this year. The officers were Justine Jez; Treasurer, Mike McWilliams; President, Janine Sodergren; Vice-President, and Brian Garland; Secretary.

ON A BUSY SATURDAY morning Page Barger is shown here putting together a miniature rocket. After decorating it in his own way, Page will launch it outside of the high school with the rest of his classmates.

MANY OF THE activities done in Saturday Science used different chemicals. Glenn Deardorff is dropping a dangerous chemical into a glass flask of water. Don't drop that flask!!

Awakening Scientists

by Gigi Highland

"Beep, Beep!", the alarm clock rang.

Lifting his head off the warm soft pillow, John looked at the clock. It was 6:30 a.m. He had to be at the high school at 7:30 a.m. for Saturday Science. He had just enough time to wash up, eat breakfast, and ride his bike as fast as possible to the high school. Sleepily, John leaned over and pushed the snooze alarm on his clock. While knocking over his books on his desk, John crept back into bed for another five minutes. Soon he would be awakening to an environment of experimentation in science.

While most students slept in or watched their favorite cartoons on Saturday mornings, a courageous group of freshmen got up in the early mornings to attend a club, Saturday Science.

The Saturday Science course was not like a regular science class. A "hands on experience" was how the students learned the importance of science.

As one student, George Kerler, put it, "I think the best thing about Saturday Science is experimenting in an open environment with friends you don't get to spend much time with anymore"

Experiments were done in the areas of biology, chemistry, physics, and earth and space science. The students enjoyed such experiments as; melting glass, making aspirin and hand cream, heating metals, and creating and launching miniature rockets.

Saturday Science has been and still is today a very popular freshmen activity. Through the art of science the students learn and have fun.

"I LIKE DOING THE EXPERIMENTS WITHOUT WORRYING ABOUT BEING GRADED ON THEM." -DEBBIE LINGLE

Clubs

By Sarah Barr

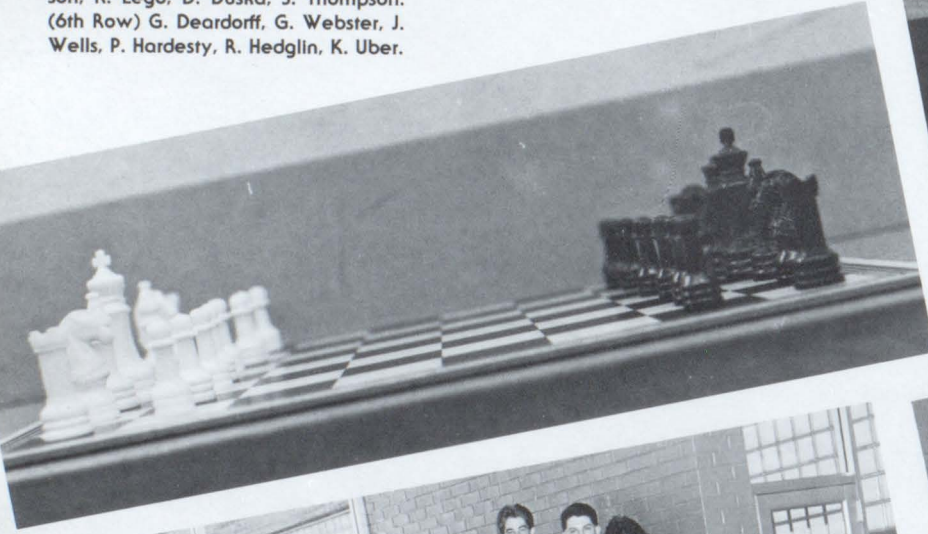

Every second and fourth Wednesday during club period a group of competitive students met in room 123 to challenge each other at chess. The atmosphere of this classroom was filled with intense concentration as each player made his next crucial move. As each game progressed, more chess pieces were removed until the last strategic move was made and a student would proudly announce, "Checkmate!"

As the year passed, these "chessnuts" helped each other to learn the tricks of the chess board and also improve their own game. With the help of Mr. Boling, chess brought together a group of students who shared a similar hobby.

Graham, (5th Row) G. Percy, D. Thompson, R. Lego, D. Duska, S. Thompson, (6th Row) G. Deardorff, G. Webster, J. Wells, P. Hardesty, R. Hedglin, K. Uber.

The echo of the presses could be heard ringing through the dismal halls of GCHS as the newspaper returned. This "merry band of pencil-pushing penmen" brought back those eccentric headlines with enthusiasm and confidence. Not since 1984 has Grove City High School had a newspaper, but then the Talon Tribune came alive and caught the eyes of all the student body.

Everyday in room 212 during ninth period the Newspaper Workshop class continued to vigorously use their talents among each other to develop an extraordinary work of art. Under the spirited leadership of Mrs. Vantil they managed to deliver a newspaper full of articles varying from school activities to humorous short stories.

NEWSPAPER: (Sitting) J. Winbush, J. Drahuschak, J. Graham, B. Duck, T. Davis, L. Baker, (Kneeling) S. Lewis, C. Moore, D. Aldstadt, S. Myers, (Standing) B. Travis, H. Patterson, M. Grimm, J. Buchanan, M. King, M. Cooney, S. Sowers, C. Hindman, B. Dayton, Mrs. Vantil. (Back Row) A. Montgomery, A. Fair, M. Louise.

A talented group of vocalists chosen to be known as "Musical Impact" took to the stage this year to bring song and dance into the lives of the community. Performing such fast, flashy tunes as "Everybody Loves My Baby" and slow, love songs like "When I Fall in Love", the group attracted all types of audiences varying from the Christmas concert for the elementary to the numerous performances displayed for local banquets. With the help of their advisor, Mr. Barron, the group choreographed all their own songs with each member contributing their own ideas. They also took part in several competitions and conventions throughout the year.

Every Wednesday after school during the months of January, February, and March a large group of students chose to take up the hobby of bowling. The captains of the twelve teams, which consisted of four people for each team, kept their team alert and cheered them on for a strike. Under the guidance of Mrs. Opitz, due to Mrs. Gilson's absence, the Intramural Bowling program ran smoothly and allowed a chance for students to improve their bowling score. Each year trophies are awarded to the student who had the highest individual score and who overall improved their game the most.

SKI CLUB

by Cathy Reznor

Although skiing is obviously the primary goal of most Ski Club members, so much more is shared among them. Long bus rides, late nights, and early Friday mornings are a part of it, but perhaps the finest thing the Ski Club has to offer is the opportunity to share good times with fellow members.

Some of the fondest memories in the years to come will be ones of the 1986-87 Ski Club year. As members reflect back to those eight consecutive Thursday trips, each individual has certain memories they will never forget. For Senior Vici Riede, perhaps having best friend Lisa Sowers dangling from their chair lift by one arm will be an experience she is unlikely to forget. Undoubtedly, Eric Lindh will find it difficult to forget the inconvenience of jeans splitting while attempting a double daffy or his ski tips suddenly breaking off. (Is there anything else we don't know about Eric?)

Although not all members are exceptional skiers, they are always trying to improve their abilities. Whether taking advantage of the ski lessons offered or learning from friends or experience, each member enjoys improving. They may not enjoy the frequent falling or dreaded wipeouts, but nevertheless, all of the laughter and good times make up for it.

As usual, the Ski Club was a success. With its expanding membership and exceptional leadership from both Mr. Padezanin and officers, the Ski Club has managed to remain one of the top clubs at Grove City High School.

LOOK OUT!

THE CLASS OF 1990 IS HERE

As the days grew shorter and the nights grew colder, it was school time again. For the class of 1990 school time meant leaving the familiarity of the Junior High, and heading for the intimidating Senior High. For Many Freshman September 2nd was a long sleepless night full of anticipation of the triumphs and perils to come.

Freshman Class President, Ryan Elliot, commented, "coming to the Senior High was basically an experience which I think most ninth graders looked forward to. It was different from the Junior High in that there were many more students at the Senior High, and the school itself seemed much larger. The first day or two it seemed as if some would never find their way around, but eventually they did, and that has since proved to be the only real difficulty of the year."

With these troubles surmounted, the Freshman class looked forward to the remainder of the year and the good times that awaited them.

Who's being swept up in this turmoil of checkered balls and knee pads?? Our very own G.C.H. students, that's who! Just as some people prefer to swim, bike, read, or sleep in their spare time, these innovative guys prefer to channel their pent-up energy into some earth poundin', fancy footin' soccer games. While expressing their individuality and passion for the game, they've aquired a great deal of skill and managed to bring down several trophies.

INQUIRER

After thirteen years of lies and deception, Tim Weber is finally caught eating potato chips. When asked to comment on this accusation he flatly denies it, claiming that he had been framed by Ronald Reagan. "Ronny," he says, "has always envied my will power and will do anything to see me munching chips."

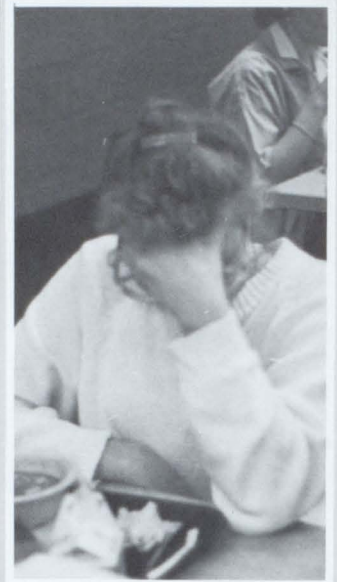

Usually mild-mannered Jason Smith, turns savage on our Inquirer reporters when questioned about the mysterious death of his goldfish Abbey. Crushing milk cartons and hurling buttered rolls got him nowhere. Our persistent reporters nailed him to the wall. In a desperate attempt to maintain his innocence, Jason alters his story, which leads to the question: Was it a brutal slaying on Jason's part, or death by natural causes? You decide!

How does the Inquirer know that Cheryl Axtel is in fact an Alimen? (13/16 human, and 3/16 alien). The dead giveaway is the saddle brown freckle under her left eye. Come on Cheryl, everyone knows Alimen don't wear glasses!

Why does Lisa Warner look so happy these days? Who wouldn't feel secure under the protective wings of secret servicemen, Jeff Boiling and William Smoker. When questioned about her protection she was quoted as saying, "Because sorrow rides a fast horse, I find myself eating broccoli regularly which contributes to my on going passion of time travel and the limited elements of life." Even the well trained Inquirer

Staff who routinely interprets quotes couldn't make hide nor hair of this one.

Technological advances create new hope in Siamese Quintuplets Apryl Flynn, Julie Hoagland, Mindy Kiser, Kim Gable, and Colleen Cavanaugh. When these five girls regained conscienceness after the Chernobyl accident, they were horrified to find themselves fused together.

Many physicians stated that their predicament was irrevocable, but in todays dynamic medical world nothing is impossible. Polish physicist, Clyde Polowski, has recently released an unproven theory on the separation of the five girls. Polowaski's plan involves the use of freshly squeezed carror juice and several clamps. The only setback is the tremendous cost of the operation. All donations will be graciously accepted by the Inquirer Staff, c/o Lisa Sowers and Vicci Riede. Good luck girls!

Fond Memories . . . are what you can find in snapshots. They capture split seconds of time that will last forever.

Throughout this year's Pine Knot, the 1987 Staff tried to capture those memories in their candid pages. One thing we all know is that not everyone was so lucky to be in one of those pictures from the past.

Your Future Is In Their Hands: The Class Of 1989

The Sophomore class is sure to be a success under the leadership of its devoted officers. Weighed down by the tremendous responsibility of heading the Class of 1989, Mark Raymond has little time for relaxation. On the other hand, Jeff Ifft, who spends the majority of his time in the lounge, discredits the prestigious title of Vice President. He should model himself after class, Secretary, Muffy Farrone, who works diligently to serve President Raymond and uphold the Sophomore name. As for class Treasurer, Ishmael Limkakeng, no one could be better suited for the job!

Cooling the flames of passion Dr. Packard and Mr. Bell are found expressing their discontent with the display of affection among members of the student body. This awareness of amorous behavior turned out to be one of the more pressing issues of this year. At one point Dr.

Packard, feeling that this had gone too far, made one of his notorious announcements prohibiting this unacceptable behavior. While some students were dismayed when asked to limit themselves to simple hand holding, others had no objections.

THE TRADITION CONTINUES

One of the big events of the Sophomore year is the annual ring sale. Jostens held an assembly where they introduced the various styles and options available. Students then created their own specialized rings. Some chose gold, while others go for silver. Individuality can also be expressed through the stone, style, and engravings of the ring. The popularity of the class ring continues to grow as students seize the opportunity to express themselves while purchasing a memory of their high school years.

Spring for most high school students was a time without the worries of school and homework; it instead proved to be a time for remembering the "good times."

It was common to sit around with friends and laugh at former experiences with teachers or quick thinking when coming home after curfew. It was a great summer for all, but for one group of students "leaping into a new year" meant a whole new definition for good times.

For the Sophmores it was a summer filled with new and exciting experiences. Instead of hanging-out at the Rec., going to the beach, or watching a movie with friends, just cruising town was their new entertainment.

It was a challenge for the new Juniors, but they far surpassed the expectations of their parents, evolving into mature students with a sense of responsibility.

We Have Arrived!

As the Sophomores looked optimistically into the future the phrase "Only two more years to go" started popping up quite frequently. As Seniors looked back and laughed at the eager Sophomores, they took great pride in the fact of reaching the two year mark. By the middle of the year the Class of '89 were in the mainstream of things-setting their own trends, pursuing their own interests and finding their own ways to entertain themselves. Yes, the SOPHOMORES HAVE ARRIVED! No longer were they the timid, lost class the upper classmen knew. They were bold Sophomores on their way to holding the title of Junior. Besides the traditional parties, cruising the metropolitan of G.C. (as many were getting their licenses) and hanging out at McDonalds, these students found new and exciting ways of having fun. These pages are dedicated to the class of '89 and all the moments they shared. To the left, Scott Flemming demonstrates the class of '89's need for a good laugh.

I CAN SIT HERE NO LONGER

*Sometimes,
 When I sit and gaze through the window and I am warm and comfortable
 I realize
 That soon I must leave this place to tread through the white wilderness out there.
 And I know when I shall,
 as I have so many times before,
 That the snow will be hard and crisp.
 It will crunch beneath my feet, and my footprints will mingle with those who have gone before me.*

*I can see
 the impressions they have made.
 Some are faltering, but some are large and deep and defined.
 Each set branches out in a direction of its own
 And I can be certain
 That the impressions my feet make will change
 the ones of those who follow me
 Eventually,
 they will fade with the coming of new snow,
 And the new prints will wear upon mine
 But I shall not stop or falter but walk on in a direction of my own
 To plow a path for all who seek to go far as I do . . .
 I can sit here no longer.*

Winter Festival

"Beauty is in the eye's of the beholder", and behold what a beautiful Junior Class. Winter Festival 1987 produced enthusiasm, spirit, and excitement throughout the Junior Class, as well as the entire student body. It gave a reason to celebrate and have fun during the cold winter days, and to enhance the festivities, a Winter Festival Queen was crowned.

Although every eleventh grade girl was eligible to be a Winter Festival Candidate, only ten girls could be chosen as nominees by the Junior Class. They were; Sarah Barr, Susie Donan, Tracie Hennon, Paula Lapcevic, Kim McAninch, Marnie McCluskey, Missy McCracken, Juanita McMurdy, Emily McNickle, and Cathy Reznor.

Continuing through the traditional election process, the nominees were presented to the student body at an assembly. Each student then voted for three candidates he/she would like to be on the Winter Festival Court. After all the votes were tallied, the names of the three were revealed; Tracie Hennon, Kim McAninch, and Marnie McCluskey, but the identity of the Queen remained unknown.

During Winter Festival Week these girls were presented at many activities. The Queen was Miss Tracie Hennon. After the memorable ceremony, a dance was held in the high school cafeteria in honor of our fair Queen, Tracie, and her lovely court.

THE JV AND VARSITY basketball cheerleaders joined together promoting fun and spirit during Winter Festival.

AFTER A FESTIVE CEREMONY, the Queen, Tracie Hennon, and her Court, Kim McAninch and Marnie McCluskey, enjoy tearful congratulations from fellow classmates.

Sparked by the Senior hothead of Jimmy Nicholson and gutsy defense of Senior Eric McCool, the 1987 Boys Basketball Team chalked up another winning season for GCHS. With the talented combination of two Seniors and three Juniors, the Eagles led their team to a 16-7 record. Five of these seven losses were by a margin of three points or less. Although the Eagles suffered through their share of heartbreaks, the 1987 season was marked by many games that we will long remember. Who could ever forget the home game against Sharon?! Senior Eric McCool commented that the highlight of his season was "Beating Deer Lakes. Holding Palmer to eleven points, when he averaged twenty-five points." Together the Eagles pulled through another victorious season.

When asked to describe this year's season in one word the Juniors involved in the captions replied with such answers as "Unrewarding" (J. Minnick), "Disappointing" (J. Mills), "Frustrating" (N. McEwen), "Unsatisfying" (S. Trinch), "An Experience" (B. Benson) . . . This may be the way they feel about this year's season, but according to Sophomores Mark Raymond and Phil Hardesty next year's team looks to be "well balanced, well rounded, and experienced"; a trio which may turn out to be "a Mercer County Powerhouse."

THE PLAY-OFF game against Franklin was an exciting game to watch. Working hard for a basket, Valarry Baker gets a fastbreak and heads straight for the hoop.

DRIBBLING INTENSELY DOWN the court, Renea Surrena quickly scans the group of mangled bodies in search of that perfect pass which will add two more points to the Eagles score.

ALTHOUGH IT IS nerve racking on the court, it is as tense on the bench. Catching their breaths after a job well done, Donna Myford and Sarah Barr sit attentively, cheering their teammates on to VICTORY!

Team Work

"I felt that the key to the whole season was teamwork and experience. All of us could anticipate what the other could do and we didn't push each other too hard. Even though we ended the season with a loss, the whole season was a winner."

..... Paul Lapcevic

Teamwork was definitely the key to both the Varsity and JV Lady Eagles success. When observing a game one could notice the closeness and encouragement from teammates. Although only five could play at one time all hearts were in it together. Through teamwork and determination, the girls managed to bring down the titles of Mercer County Champs, District 10 Champs and Western Pa finalist. The Lady Eagles also had a record of 23-0 in regular season play. Although the girls had a great season and have improved their skills, they have also learned a more important skill, working together as a team.

"I thought it was very bonding. It made us all realize that we are a team that works together really well."

..... Stacy Houston

BEFORE ANOTHER EXCITEMENT packed game, the Lady Eagles take one last moment to wish each other luck.

Students Stricken With Wrestle Mania

"This was a successful season for our wrestlers with 11 wins and 7 losses. The season marked the first time since 1956 that we beat Greenville! The team finished 4th in Sections and 5th in District 10, with 4 wrestlers advancing to Regional competition."

"We had 4 Seniors on the 86'-87' team and each contributed a great deal towards the success of this year's team. Bill Metheney had a big win against the top seeded wrestler in sections. Mike Baker had an outstanding tournament at Warren with a 3rd place finish. Our Co-captains Nick Pompa and Ron Saunders contributed their share of points every match and were outstanding in Sections and Districts."

"This year's team also had some noteworthy Juniors. Deven Dittich, Chris Harvey, Jason Fulkeron and Scott Lewis all placed at Sections. The single most important ingredient for the success of this team is their willingness to work together!"

Free With PLYOMETRICS

Tim Sloan, a Senior, describes plyometrics; "Plyometrics are a series of running and jumping exercises which are done in cycles. We do these in hopes of decreasing our times in our races but it is also a way to give us a little bit of endurance and ready us for the outdoor season, when the real work begins." He adds; "While you're doing the ply's you can feel yourself breaking down gradually. At first you feel nothing 'cause you're just starting. After a while though you find yourself tiring out and not being able to do the drills as effectively as when you first started. You don't really feel too much until the next morning when you ATTEMPT to get out of bed to walk to the shower. It's not really pain it's just a lot of aches. During the school day you really begin to tighten up and it feels good to be able to go to practice and stretch again. It makes you very tired too, You need a day inbetween to recover and prepare yourself for the next time. If you did it every day you'd end up burning yourself out and it wouldn't be worthwhile"

Suzan Mapes states her opinion; "Personally, I like plyometrics. I'm a distance runner I need strength, endurance, and speed. If anybody wants to be good at anything they must work for it. I like to do things for my body so I feel better about myself."

Chuck Conway describes the soreness one feels the next day; "Simply, it feels like someone prying your toenails off with a hot needle. Have you ever given birth? Every movement you make reminds you of what you thought was a workout for people with half a brain. Suddenly you notice you are walking like a cowboy who has just gotten off his horse from a long ride. Your back rakes on the form of the hunch back, of Notre Dame. You realize your arms no longer have the ability to swing back and forth. In short your body feels like it's been let out of a sardine can dated 1973.

JUNIOR RUNNER DOUG Williamson displays definite Eagle effort during the plyometric program and during meets. Doug was on the 2nd place 880 relay team at Slippery Rock.

KEEPING IN SHAPE for track, Ray Barz works hard to prepare himself to throw discus.

"SIMPLY, IT FEELS like someone prying off your toenails with a hot needle." Senior hurdler Chuck Conway pushes himself to the limit. Chuck placed 4th in the 65 meter high hurdles at West Virginia University.

Yes . . . There Is Life After School.

Going to school can be such a drag! A.L.C.'s, detentions, homework and even more homework adds up to a lot of pressure and stress. Students don't relish spending weekends doing extra homework. They want to have a good time. And although Grove City isn't anymore exciting than vanilla ice cream, students found some sort of activity—a remedy to spell relief from school.

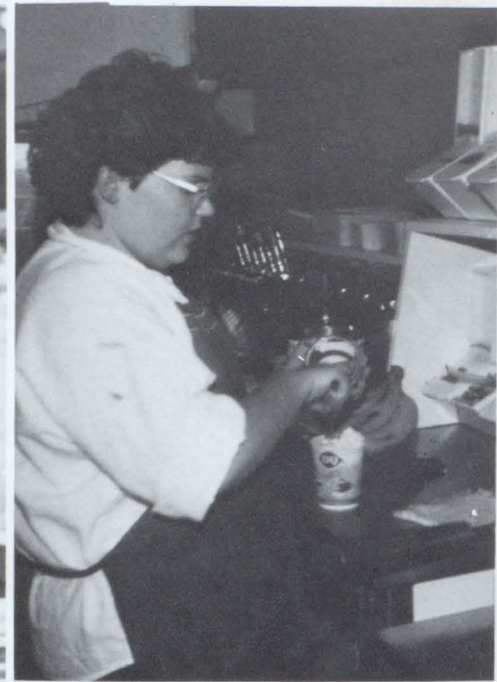

One variation is spelled: D-A-N-C-E. Formal or informal, students loved to get down with loud music. Dances not only are opportunities for foot-tapping excitement, but they also open doors for flirtations socializing.

Another form of relief is C-R-U-I-S-I-N-G to a H-A-N-G-O-U-T. Cruising is enjoyed by most high school students either on foot, or, if one is lucky, in a four-wheeled vehicle. And after taking a couple of revolutions around the featured "Grove City Down Town Block", the Recreation Center and McDonald's serve as good refueling locations for bored cruisers looking for some new action.

Other good ways of having fun in and out of school are revealed in our in-depth, school-wide, student survey. Results, which are located on pages 84-87, include the percentage of Grove City High School students who use acne cream, what teenagers do when their parents leave them an open house, and much, much, much more! Now, since you are now totally "pumped up" to look and reflect what Student Life was all about in 1986-87, I'll stop writing this introduction . . . . .

Many Grove City High School students participate in activities outside of the inner walls of High School. These students exhaust themselves by working in such places as McDonalds, Dairy Queen and other franchises in town. The joys of cold-hard-cash appeal to these students when asked about the benefits. Although they experience the side effects of rude customers and unfair managers, they all agree that student jobs make cent$.

School Review

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL, MR. Bell, inspects cars in the student parking lot for parking stickers. This inspection was held several times during the school year.

COLLIN MOORE AND Lisa Riede display their affection for each other in the hall. This was a part of student life in the past.

Grove City Senior High School has had its share of controversial issues! School policy was more strictly enforced on such issues as student parking stickers which allow students to park in the student parking lot. Some students parked at Trader Horn in protest. Another issue was the policy on amorous displays. Public affection during school hours was halted by the administration. These issues sparked the attention of students throughout the year.

World Events

The years 1986-87 gained national attention. Events that have stunned American society were the AIDS issue and the Iranian secret arms deal. The AIDS virus panicked the nation with an increase in deaths and no found cure. Another issue Americans were faced with was the secret arms deals with Iran which ultimately challenged President Reagan's reputation. A probe into the affair revealed many facts which the president should have known about, but didn't. These issues gained much publicity during 1986-87 and affected American society in many ways.

But . . .
Our beautiful dancing feet that

This year the '60's styles marched back into fashion. But plenty of room was still left for an innovative 80's look. High school students took advantage of blending both looks to achieve an overall impression of chic. Diversity of styles, offered a large selection of apparel for anyone who wanted to look ostentatiously stylish. Many of these fads will quickly fade, while others will remain "classic". But you can be sure that G.C.H.S. teens will always strive to lead the style parade by looking the best they can.

"What is in and what is out?" That was the fashion question of 1987. People wanted to look good. Styles that resembled the '60's came back, while short skirts and loud shirts stayed at home (in the closet). If you wore turtlenecks under sweaters, or Rugby shirts — you were definitely on the cutting edge of fashion.

As usual, fads came and went. And this year the favorite fad was clearly Coca-Cola casual wear. Coke proved it was the real thing by pulling away from all other clothing logo brands (including soft drink competitor, Pepsi). You wondered if there was anything they wouldn't put their logo on! Coke sweatshirts, long and shortsleeved Rugbys, T-shirts, jeans, suspenders, boxer shorts, glasses and watches were all displayed by students of both sexes.

Of course, as a high school student, unless you won the Lottery, you couldn't afford to wear Coke shirts everyday. Another style that was definitely "in," but had more economics flexibility, was the sweater. The "in" sweaters worn throughout the year closely re-

FOLLOWING THE ADVICE of Seventeen magazine's spring issue, Missy McCracken and Polly May dress in western-looking outfits. Not something a guy would wear, but this style got the "ya-hoo!" from the gals.

LISA SOWERS IS wondering why in the world would she have to stand in such a stupid pose while pretending to talk on the phone just to have a picture taken of her fashionable winter jacket.

ATTEMPTING TO IMPERSONATE mannequins found in a Bloomingdale's, Andy Fair and Paula Lapcevic find it a little difficult to pose like inanimate creatures. Statues, they are sembled fashionable styles seen every Thursday night of T.V.'s "Cosby Show." Bill Cosby performed wearing highly admired outfits accented by high priced — and highly admired — sweaters. Students strove to duplicate the look of their T.V. role-model by wearing striped, paisley, multi-toned and all sorts of other intricately designed, but less expensive sweaters.

Students also kept on their toes fashionably with the shoes they wore. Reebok was practically the sole choice for fashion oriented feet. Boys laced up their white Reeboks while girls tied on white or black sneakers. Black? Yes, this was the first year that black shoes made an impression on G.C.H.S.. Keeping in step with footwear for dressy occasions included penny loafers for guys and gals, white docksiders for the GQ man, and white boots for the modish female. But by far this year, black shoes were the forerunners of the new look in foot fashion.

What made black shoes so popular? Stirrup pants. The outrageous new style of black, right-fitting pants for girls needed an outrageous complimentary shoe, black sneakers. After that gals wore black sneakers with everything.

Meanwhile, stylish pants for guys were anything that looked "worn in". New dark blue jeans were nothing to show off because jeans had to give the impression that you had been crawling in desert sand for years. After several washings (bleaching jeans in the bathtub was probably the best way to break in a fresh pair of Levis), and some bleaching, your jeans were ready to go public.

nor, but fashionable, they are. Managing to look shiek while staying warm in turtlenecks underneath crew and cardigan sweaters, they top off their outfits with marching penny loafers.

WEARING THEIR OWN personal style of dressing down, Heather McClean and Jason Reeher show characteristics of the 1987 "worn-in" look. Concert T-shirts were the most popular choice of the 'I don't care' appearance, showing the student's taste in music and proof of a concert ticket purchase. And, of course, Jason does not need faddish clothing to resemble his personality: a rebel ready to farkle.

Knew What They Liked

By Drew
Hoffecker

Grove City High School Students knew what they liked and wanted what they liked. This year Bon Jovi, Top Gun, Bill Cosby, Days of our Lives and Alf were the biggest hits.

Just as music changes every year, so does its listeners. Bon Jovi's hard voices and loud guitars captured the hearts of an overwhelming majority of high school teenagers. And to balance the type of music, Chicago's soft melodies continued to melt the lovebirds of America.

The hard-rockin' movie that brought a new style of sunglasses into fashion was Top Gun. The leading actor was played by the high-flying teen idol, Tom Cruise. Cruise's glasses were worn throught the United States and complimented any outfit . . . making it look "cool".

Students cooled off at night watching their favorite TV shows: The Cosby Show, Alf and Moonlighting. Teens actually made an effort to finish their homework early, just to be able to see the All American Cosby Show every Thursday. Alf, who was a halarious, fun-loving creature from outer space, was adored by (almost) everyone. And of course, there had to be a night time soap opera; Moonlighting, which featured comical Bruce Willis and lovely Cybill Sheppard.

The daytime soap operas that were most enjoyed in Grove City were: Days of Our Lives, Guiding Light and Santa Barbara. Die hard viewers that couldn't afford missing one episode or day of school, video taped the show daily to keep track of who was killing, dating or cheating on whom.

Students did know what they liked. But even though they will deny it now, their interests will soon change.

NEIL McEWEN GOT a good start on his day with nutritious eggs, roast, Cheerios, orange juice and 30 essential minutes of Pee Wee's Playhouse. This colorful, loved and hated character was the most popular Saturday Morning feature.

IS SARAH BARR finding something amusing on the back of Bon Jovi's album, or is she just trying to look good for a yearbook picture?

WHERE DO STUDENTS GO FOR FUN

Grove City students have found that the traditional hangouts of our area no longer meet their incessant desire for enjoyment. When the weekend finally arrives, one will notice a large proportion of students venturing out of the confinements of Grove City. Whether journeying to the VIP, Razzies, or Red Caboose, the one hour trip seems to be worth the wait. These hot spots have provided our students with an enjoyable place to release their pent-up energy in a constructive way-by dancing! Others may go as far as Pittsburgh for shopping, concerts, and various cultural and sporting activities. Although Grove City lacks the metropolitan characteristics, we have an excellent geographic location for easy access to larger cities while retaining the small town attitudes and values. Surrounding cities such as Butler and Sharon have remained popular to most "Grove Citiers"; catching a movie or touring the mall satisfies us as it had throughout the years. While sometimes we feel the need to travel elsewhere for entertainment, people from other communities actually come to Grove City for fun, thereby proving the axiom that the grass always appears greener on the other side. Our good ol' Rec Center, Sheetz, Community Park and Guthrie Theatre are often taken for granted; although we may venture out to the VIP or Pittsburgh, we seem to always gravitate back to the secure setting and one of the most traditional hang outs of all, McDonalds.

IN THE SUMMER the street fair is a main attraction and a three day hangout for most students. Doing some catching up on the latest news, Devin Dirrich and friends enjoy the conversation.

ON FRIDAY NIGHTS Mr. Donur is a very popular hangout, especially in the winter. Enjoying some warm hot chocolate, Dawn Blakely waits patiently for her ride.

MANY STUDENTS GATHER on Broad Street for parades during the year. Andy Howatt and Chris Frelin wait patiently for the upcoming attraction in the parade.

In order for a school to run smoothly it is necessary to have effective leaders. Fortunately, Grove City High School contains more than its share. However, there is one particular student who stands out among his fellow classmates—Nathan Hughes. Nathan's achievements throughout the years are one for which he ought to be commended. People like Nathan provide us with a brighter, more hopeful future.

His responsibility, compatibility, and perhaps most importantly, his leadership skills all add to his success both in and out of school. These qualities provide others with someone to admire, and he sets an example for others to follow.

Nathan has had a great deal of experience to qualify him as the Junior Class President. He was also President of the Sophomore Class and Vice President as a Freshman.

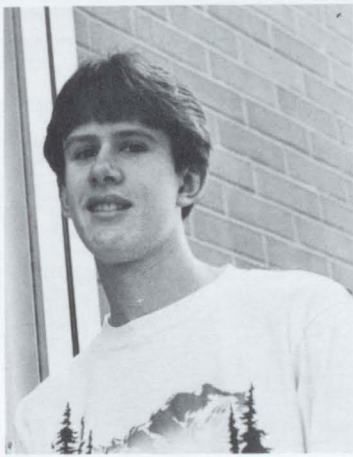

His leadership skills are also prevalent on the field and on the court. Nathan has been a member of both the boys basketball and football teams. Nathan is an active member of student council, and National Honor Society. He was the head coach for the Junior Powder Puff girls, prom page and past President of Saturday Science.

"I feel, as Junior Class President, that our class has successfully combined academic and athletic excellence to bring honor and recognition to our school. I appreciate the opportunity to represent the Junior Class."

"88" Sets The Record Straight

The traditional Junior Magazine Sale began January 30th and lasted until February 10th. During this limited time period, our Junior class managed to exceed its original goal of $21,500. In ten short days, a new record was set at G.C.H.S. by raising a total of $23,781.39.

The success of the sale was due to many factors. Besides having an exceptional advisor, Miss Tyson, and co-advisors consisting of our class officers, (Nathan Hughes, Jeff Mills, Don Lingle and Sarah Barr) overwhelming class participation was a large contributing factor. The class of '88' had 194 students, 140 of whom participated. Of these participants, over 75% met the quota of ten sales or exceeded it. By reaching this quota, these students received a complimentary Junior and Senior Prom ticket, and a ticket to the Senior Banquet.

The top individual seller was Sam Trinch who sold $794.00 worth of magazines and cassettes. Surprisingly, he was not a member of the highest selling team. Team three alone, sold $4,593.80 worth of merchandise.

Perhaps the main reason for the enormous participation was due to the major incentive-PRIZES! They ranged from t-shirts to large grand prizes such as stereos and telephones. Although this was what probably sparked the initial interest in the Juniors, they most importantly proved that they can effectively work together to achieve a common goal.

Miss Tyson, the second year advisor of the magazine sale, commented, "I love working with this many students outside of the classroom setting. It gives me a chance to really know, and have fun, with them, despite all of the hard work."

DISTRIBUTING PRIZES WAS only a small part of the work our class officers endured. Secretary, Sarah Barr, enthusiastically hands Jeff Shaffer his prize as she realizes how successful the sale is after only a few short days.

Girls' Track Team

This year the girls' track team excelled beyond a winning season. The Eagle track team ended the year with a 5-4 record contributed largely by a good freshman and sophomore team. Among the 25 letter winners, there were outstanding performances. The 3200 relay team set a new track record with a time of 10:33.8 breaking the time of 10:41.6 set in 1981. The relay team consisting of Priscilla Arwell, Kelly Brautigam, Michele Hibbard, and Susie Mapes also finished sixth at the Lakeview Invitational held May 2. Sophomore, Valarry Baker, also set a new girls' track record in the Long Jump. She finished first in District Finals with a jump of 17'3". Mrs. McKenzie, the girl's track coach, looks forward to next year saying, "We expect to have an excellent team in the following couple of years with the return of these good young athletes."

Boys Track Team

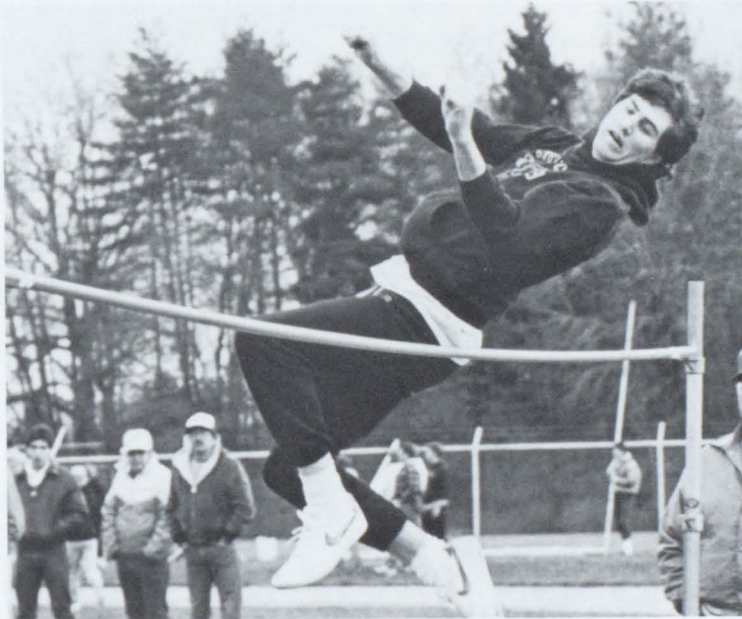

The Boys' Track Team had an astounding year. Along with their winning season of 10-1, many athletes made outstanding performances. Among them were: Corey Cross, Mike McWilliams, Jim Nicholson, and Dave Hennon. The 3200 meter relay team consisting of: Jason Reeher, Don Lingle, Mike McWilliams, and Ross Headrick also made an excellent performance. These individuals all advanced to the State meet to compete in their events. The team itself also gained high recognition winning four District Championships. The strength and ability helped the Boys' Track Team surpass a winning season.

MIKE MCWILLIAMS STRIVES for the finish line in the 3200 meter run. He made an outstanding performance beating the freshman record in this event.

JIM NICHELSON BENDS and twists to reach those extra inches. He advances on to the State Competition held May 22 & 23.

BRIAN MEALS FOLLOWS through on his style in the shotput. Brian performed well and inspired his team with senior leadership to a winning season.

CHUCK CONWAY HURDLES over obstacles in front of him. He participated in the 100 & 300 meter hurdle events. He also participated in the District Finals where he made an excellent attempt at going to States.

Raise A Racquet

While students were consumed with finals, spring time allergies, prom, track and sun tanning sessions, the tennis team quietly had another spectacular season, going 9-2. "I know we don't have many fans, but we give a good show to the ones who come," said Scott Vath, who was the number three man and undefeated.

The tennis team has compiled an astounding 19-3 record in the last two years. "We like to have fun playing," senior Doug Dannels added. "They were a colorful bunch of guys. We had a great season . . ." chuckled coach, Mrs. Gilson, "on and off the court. We had a lot of fun." Fun indeed, the team won an incredible 64 out of 73 matches and blanked seven teams 7-0.

The team was a success off the court as well. Mrs. Gilson stated, "Although everyone had their own unique personality, the whole team got along like one big happy family." The GC tennis families have had the same "Mom" for ten years . . . Mrs. Gilson. "We've had our rough times, but we've roughed them out", proclaimed Mom, "and a 9-2 record proves it."

Again and again, the tennis bunch proved that they were a winning combination. Although tennis has traditionally been a quieter sport, the Grove City netters have not hesitated to raise their racquets in both team support and victory.

Going through the motions of high school is something every teenager has to deal with, but when a student can excel in every subject and yet take part in extracurricular activities, the only explanation is dedication and hard work.

To show the students how their hard work would pay off, a trip to Pitt University was arranged by president, Vicci Riede. Those who partook in the trip toured the campus and a dorm, talked to students who were interested in the same career goals, and experienced the true atmosphere of the University. The club members made the trip a definite success.

Desire And Ability Excel

by Jesi Lambert

Concert Choir is a group of students with a desire to express themselves through music. The choir is divided into two groups: 9-10 and 11-12, each meeting one period a day. They perform in various concerts throughout the year. This includes a Christmas and Spring Concert. The Choir also performs at the Mercer County Court House and the Mercer Living Center. Choir members that wish to excel are able to audition for Honors Chorus, which is held yearly, or be selected for District Chorus.

Orchestra is a musical organization designed to serve students in grades 9-12 with the ability and desire to play a musical instrument. A wide variety of music is programmed each year. Performances throughout include a joint concert with the Jr. High as well as their own Sr. High concert.

Students Struggle To Win

History Club is a research based organization designed for those students planning to participate in the annual History Day competition. This years History Day theme is Liberty; Rights and Responsibilities in History. The students use their History Club period to gather information and research on the project they are preparing. Following the competition the club will deal with various topics relating to history.

The Drug and Alcohol Awareness group is open to all students concerned with drug/alcohol abuse. The group meets during regular club periods, during which they explore the skills needed to cope with friends and others who have drug/alcohol problems. Projects aimed at prevention are part of the years activities.

Student's Give Assistance

With the assistance of some capable students, Grove City High School was run very efficiently. Most of these students gave up their study halls in order to run errands, return attendance slips, decorate the library, and announce the news of the day. Having students perform these tasks gave the faculty and administration time to spend with individual students. These student assistants were a fundamental part of keeping the school organized during the year.

"Helping people gives me a sense of satisfaction."

ALL WORK AND NO PLAY

by Edith McFeely

As hard as it is to believe, our "elders" sometimes have better things to do with their spare time than school work! A survey of interests was taken and the results are fascinating. Some spend time with their kids. Mr. M. Marrocks likes giving his sons piggyback rides, and Mrs. D. Bisbee says her son Aaron is one of her main interests. Hunting and/or fishing is enjoyed by Mr. D. Boyer, Mr. J. Carnes, and Mr. B. Adams.

Other teachers and some of their interests and hobbies are:

Mrs. S. Denbow - Volleyball, Pralines-n-cream ice cream

Mr. W. Dzuricko - Jogging and lifting weights

Ms. J. Foster - Bowling, Photography

Mrs. C. Furlan - Tolepainting, Camping

Mrs. S. Greaves - Waterskiing

Mr. F. Hassel - Referee basketball

Mrs. N. Limberg - Traveling, Playing bridge

Mrs. S. Milkos - Calligraphy

Mr. A. Orsillo - Ballroom dancing

Mr. P. Powell - Appliance repair

Mr. R. Samsa - Playing piano

Ms. M. Sanders - Ping-pong

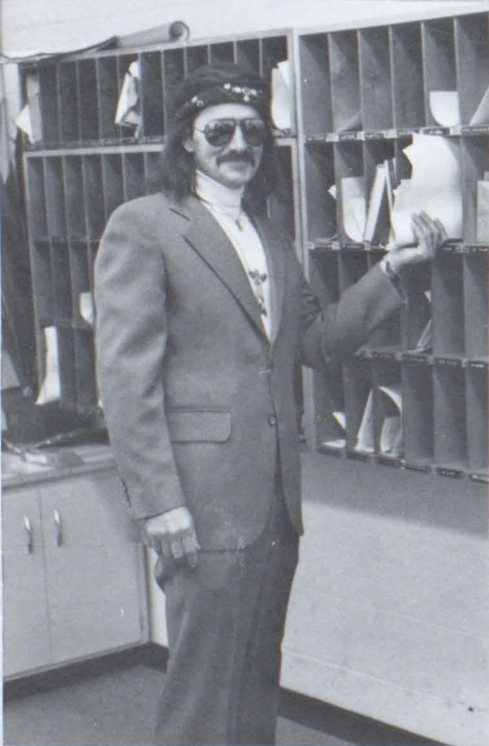

Mrs. M. Schultz - Playing piano

Yes, our educators keep themselves busy out of school as well as in.

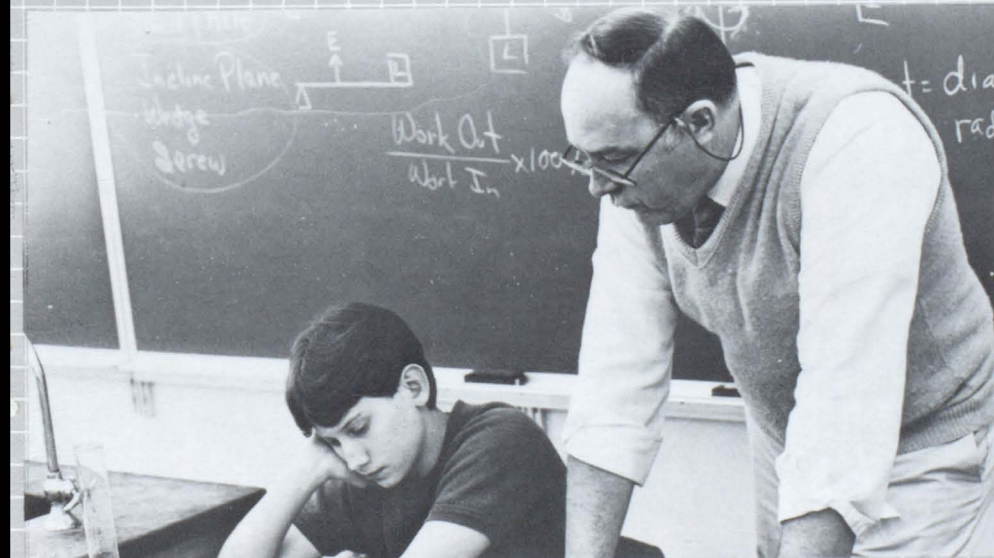

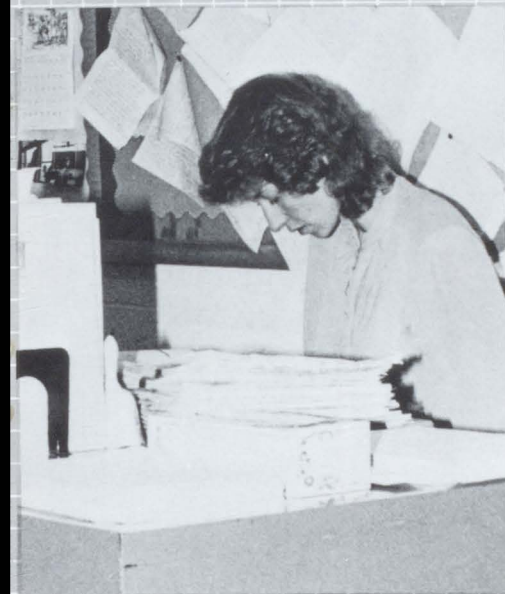

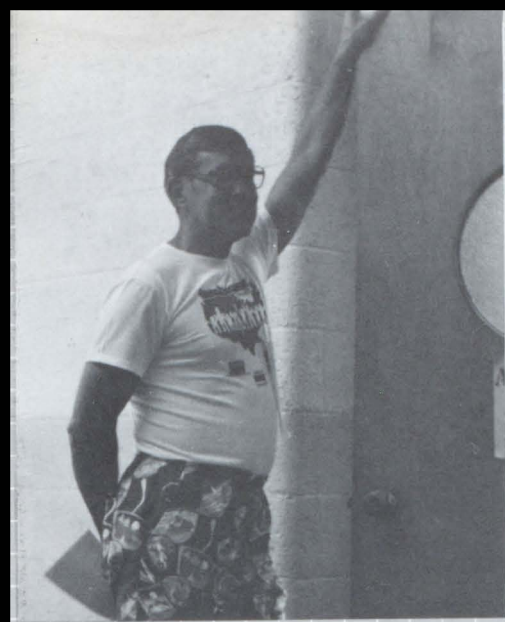

HERE IS MR. Ruley giving one of his "Whadda you think your doing" looks. The Varsity Wrestling team, one of his after school interests, had a record of 11-7 this season.

ONE OF THE teachers' activities during school is across-the-hall conversations. Miss Tyson is about to do one of her favorite activities, laugh at Mr. Deinert's "jokes".

MRS. DISDEE IS busy at her desk before class begins. She is a member of the Grove City Jaycees, and she plays golf and tennis.

MR. HAMILTON HELPS decorate the showcase in the back hall. He likes hunting, fishing, farming, and, yes, even reaching.

MR. DEINERT HELPS a student with his Physical Science work. Along with hunting and fishing, he enjoys building log homes.

Oops!!

By Edith McFeely

Our administration had some pretty embarrassing experiences while they have "reigned" at Grove City High School. Tripping, falling, fumbling, and bumbling could be some adjectives to describe their trying moments. As we all know they probably wanted to try and forget those not-so-pleasant memories. But as they do remember them, they will undoubtedly laugh at their own silly "bloopers". A survey was passed out to four administrators, and only one was handed back in. Apparently, the others' embarrassing moments were too embarrassing. Mr. Clarke admitted on the survey that he tripped as a filmstrip presentation was starting and fell off the stage with a "BANG". Laughter followed from the audience after finding he was unscathed. This proves that even in embarrassing situations, our administration handles itself well, heads held high, giggles in their wake.

Val meet Sal

After the fifth week of the new six week grading periods, Seniors anxiously awaited the list of class ranking. Amongst the confusion, two Seniors came out on top: Valedictorian, John Murdock; Salutatorian, Ethan VanTil.

John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Murdock. He has been involved in National Honor Society, track, cross country, and key club and plans to attend Pennsylvania State University.

Ethan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John VanTil. He has been involved in key club, National Honor Society, show choir, play, tennis, intramural tennis, orchestra, and ACE and plans to attend Calvin College.

Local merchants and businesses distributed gifts to all Senior Girls. Amongst these were beautiful cedar chest and lovely carnations. Here, Ramona Smith, Anisia Campbell, and Ellaina Measel display their "Treasures."

Jammin'

As the school days slowly progressed, two "Jam's Days" came into affect. The Senior Class, along with the entire student body, overwhelmingly enjoyed these carefree days where they showed off their latest "Jam Wear." They felt "comfortable" and "at ease." Here, Mrs. Gilson's Senior Anatomy Class is proven to be a true spark amongst the flame of JAMMERS.

As a tradition the class key was presented by the Senior Class President, Gigi Highland, to the Junior Class President, Nathan Hughes, at the Senior awards Assembly. Nathan was quoted as saying "I guess we are now Seniors." and the feeling was felt throughout the minds of the Class of 88.

Awards To "87"

The Annual Senior Awards Assembly was held on Tuesday, Mary 12, 1987. Amongst the awards were:

Honor Society Awards to John Murdock, scholarship; Gigi Highland, leadership; Tim Sloan, character; and Mike Coulter, service.

Other awards and their sponsors were:

Elaine Percy, College Club of Sharon for English; Edith McFeely, Grove City Women's Club for Service; Heather McCleary, Grove City Women's Club's Home Life Merit; Michele Croy and Darren Morton, Sons of the American Revolution Good Citizens; and Emilie McFeely, Grove City Jaycees' Hugh O'Brien.

Denise Webster and Ken Ryan, VFW Americanism; Ken Ryan, Grove City Music Club; Matt Beatty and Tracey Hoffman, Tent-in-the-Park Theater Award; Rhonda Taylor, Mellon Bank Business; Michelle Hibbard, First Seneca Bank Business; Marlene Sowash, Grove City School Secretaries and Clerks; Pam Knight, Mercer County Legal Secretaries; and Martha Shaw, Grove City Business and Professional Women's Club.

John Murdock, Jamesway Award and Slippery Rock University Book Award; Tim Sloan and Cathy Cutshall, Walter Pretko Memorial; Martha Shaw, Kiwanis' Key Club Leadership; Donna Myford and Ron Saunders, Athletic Department Scholarship; Donna Myford and Ron Howard, Mercer County Hall of Fame; Gigi Highland, Youth-of-the-Year; Matt Beatty and Gigi Highland, Dr. James H. McClelland; Lisa Sowers and Andy Matthews, Grove City Elks' Local Leaders; John McWilliams, Francis Sheldon Buckingham; John Murdock, E.S. and Sylvia Hassler; and Denise Webster, Mercer Women of the Moose Health Career.

Also, Tracy Hoffman, Early Child Care-Elementary Education Award; Susan Gaston, ABWA chapter Scholarship; Lisa Sowers, Grove City Foundation Scholarship; Vicci Riede and Tim Sloan, Rotary Club; Andy Matthews and John Murdock, Navy ROTC Achievement Certificate; Emilie McFeely, United Steelworkers of America Scholarship; and Gigi Highland, Cooper Energy Services Community Scholarship.

Role Models

The Annual All Sports Banquet was held on Friday, May 29, 1987 at 6:30 pm at Grove City College. Athletes from football players to cheerleaders attended, bringing their families to enjoy the festivities.

The "Jiggs" Wolford Awards were presented to one top player in each sport who had excelled in leadership, compatability, sportsmanship, and unselfishness. "Jiggs" Wolford was a fellow "gold and whiter", a true model and spirit of an athlete, and to this day we honor him and other athletes who are achievers and role models to his/her peers.

Congratulations Eagles!!

THE BANQUET WAS enjoyed by underclassmen as well as Seniors. Heather Conroy and Kim Gable anxiously await the announcement of the Wolford Winners.

THE GUEST SPEAKER, Dean Billick, The Associate Athletic Director at the University of Pittsburgh, and a native of Grove City, talks on the importance of this town.

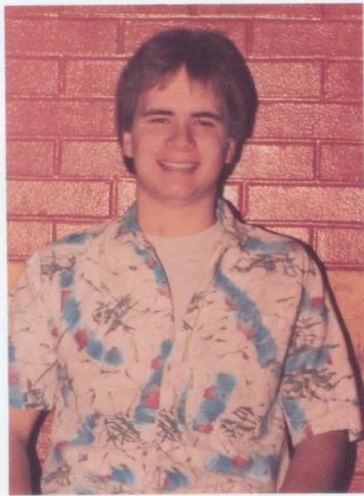

SPEAKING ABOUT GROVE CITY, Pat Cavanaugh, a student attending the University of Pittsburgh, tells waht changes are made form leaving a small town to attend a large school.

The Class Of

*Motto: Two Roads Diverged In A Wood,
And I Took The One Less Traveled By,
And That Has Made All The Difference.*

*Class Colors: Royal Blue And Ivory
Class Flower: Orchid*

"Through the process of working hard and helping each other, our class, the class of 1987, achieved a lot. Our magazine sale was the greatest ever at Grove City High as we exceeded our goal of making $20,200. With this money we created our prom "A Night in Paris". Although turning our gym into a Paris street with cafes and an Eiffel Tower produced many strains, we did it! When our class put forth an effort, we could achieve anything! WE WERE THE BEST!!!"

"It was with great pride that I watched the class of 1987 pull together and successfully raise a record breaking amount of money through magazine sales. This enabled us to show Grove City High School students a first class "Evening in Paris". Working with the various class officers, over these four years, has been a tremendous experience. Their unmatched style led our class through several traditional events with ease. I would like to commend the class of "87" on giving the word SENIOR a new dimension.

"Working hard for great success is how the class of 1987 will be remembered. Whether it's academics, athletics, extra-cir-cular activities or finding ways to have an exciting weekend, the Seniors succeed. Looking back there have been several accomplishments of which we can all be proud. Magazine sales hit a record breaking level. "An Evening in Paris" closed our Junior year in a style all our own. The future holds greatness for my classmates. I wish each one of you the happiness and success you so greatly deserve!"

"As a member of the class of 87, I naturally feel that our class is superior to previously graduated classes. The class of 87 consists of the kids I've grown up with. How could I not be devoted to the people whom I've known since we were all knee high and toothless. Next to my family, my fellow classmates are the people I know best. Our class is a group of successful and ambitious people. Our past achievements have shown this, and I'm confident that our future will be bright. I rate the class of 1987 tops!!!"

Seniors Fought For Eagle Spirit!

Teresa Roach

What would a game be like without a mascot? That's what most of us would have been experiencing if it wasn't for Emilie, Pam and Denise.

Begging and bugging came into play when these three determined girls, persuaded the administration to release into their custody, the eagle suit. Wanting an eagle to cheer on Grove City High was their main idea. A display of devotion was shown as they pestered, till no end, striving to get what our teams so greatly deserved and needed, Spirit!

Throughout the season, fans of Grove City High School sports witnessed a transformation from the dull and ordinary activities they had been used to. The mascot brought spirit and excitement to athletic events. Without the inspiration of these three fine young ladies the enthusiasm for the school would have been greatly diminished.

Much thanks is give for such devoted spirit.

THE EAGLE IS caught being friendly with Ken Ryan. The rules state, no affection in the halls!

Four Years

A time to learn
my thoughts and fears . . .

A time to share
my joys and tears . . .

A time to live in a world so clear . . .

A time to mold
what I will forever hold dear . . .

This time will pass, but ever near,
will be the memory of my high school years.

TIME IS SPENT in the mornings walking the halls before first period. Jennifer Cunningham and Nicki Williamson relax along a wall of lockers watching others make numerous trips around the corridor.

MUCH OF A student's study hall is spent going to the restroom or to their locker. Nick Pompa is caught roaming the halls while class is in session.

LINGERING IN THE hall between classes are Susie Rodgers, Jennifer Drahuschak, Janene Graham, Ellaina Measel, and Anisia Campbell. Dread enters their minds at the thought of returning to class, but each have a glimmer of hope for the 3:08 bell.

MANY STUDENTS NEED a time for relaxation sometime during the day. Alan Fearday likes to spend his free time hanging around, or should we say, in his locker.

Student Expenses Pile High

Teresa Roach

Money, money, money! How much has been spent the past four years? Most would say quite a lot!

It started as freshmen, from going to dances at the Rec Center on Saturday nights, to scrounging gas money for the car and purchasing class rings as Sophomores, to finalizing Senior graduation plans.

The Senior year was the most expensive. It started with the SAT tests. Every college bound student was required to add $11.50 to their list of expenses. Taking the SAT was expensive the first time, but the cost doubled when taking it for the second.

Other expenses increased the cost of graduation. Senior announcements, caps and gowns, and college applications robbed the wallets of most students. Senior pictures was an expense all its own. Most students had to apply for part time jobs to keep up with the continuing disappearance of cash. And even after graduation night, the spending went on, until the final departure for college.

The Senior year will never be forgotten, especially the loss of a fortune.

MUCH TIME AND effort is spent filling out SAT registration forms. Barb Buck busily works to get her form in by the deadline.

EXPENSES PILE HIGH for most students their Senior year. John McWilliams takes time to calculate his numerous costs.

GRADUATION ANNOUNCEMENTS WERE a big expense in a Senior's budget. Chris Frelin expresses shock over the tremendous prices.

THE HEADLINE READS "Pee Wee's Dead" and as always, Most Gullible. Andy Fair and Melissa Cooney believed it. Meanwhile, Class Complainers, Susie Rodgers and Ron Saunders smile because their gripes have been answered by Mr. Bell.

TEACHER'S PETS JEFF Duska and Cathy Curshall, have been caged for "kissing up" in epidemic proportions. Steve Barr and Gigi Highland, Most Spirited, keep the mood light for Jeff and Cathy.

Class Cards Continued . . .

THE TAIL END of the story is that Jesi Lambert and Dave Hennon have the very Best Senior Buns. And Janene Graham and Matt Louise implement their fashion awareness showing why they are the Best Dressed.

ALL THINGS ARE coming up Aces for the Most Likely to Succeed Erhan VanTil and Emily McFeely. As she sits in baited anticipation for Erhan's next move, Emily puffs away on her cigar.

DONNING FACE SHIELDS and shop glasses, Senior Prettiest Eyes, Kathy Gallagher and Doug Dannels prepare to damage the beautiful teeth of Nicest Smiles, Lisa Sowers and Tim Sloan.

The 1986-87 Year Brought About SPECIAL RECOGNITION

Academically speaking, senior Ethan VanTil ranks among the nations best! He was one of only 2,800 winners of college-sponsored Merit Scholarships. Ethan was awarded $2,000 a year renewable for each of the four years of his college career. VanTil's hard work and discipline have paid off and Grove City students couldn't be prouder. Keep up the good work!

"A Measure Of Excellence In An Outstanding Year"

Grove City high school students gave everyone a reason to be proud this year. Both sports lovers and academic followers had strong teams and individuals to back. Spirits ran high for the exceptional Girls basketball team, volleyball team, and wrestler who exhibited their skill with outstanding seasons, extending into playoffs, and, for senior wrestler Ron Saunders and the Girls volleyball team, all the way to states. These talented athletes were recognized with posters plastered throughout Grove City, and a special honorary parade.

Senior athlete, Marya Louise, who has been an active participant in Girls basketball, track and cross country over the past four years, received the KDKA Extra Effort Award. She was recognized for her athletic and academic achievements.

Congratulations to all students who achieved a measure of excellence in an outstanding year.

Too Early Or Too Late But Never On Time

By Jesi Lambert

While most students were hit with "spring fever" and even more lax study habits, as the school year drew to a close, the Yearbook Staff members were still "pressing their noses to the grindstone." Up until the end there were deadlines, Deadlines, DEADLINES! Through great industriousness, we hoped to have achieved the finest yearbook ever.

As we watched the calendar in anticipation, deadlines growing ever closer, some stayed up 'til all hours on week nights finalizing their layouts, others shed bitter tears over lost negatives, and still others pulled their hair trying to get a few minutes of Mr. McClelland's much sought after time. One of the staff's many mottoes could have been "Too Early or Too Late but Never on Time".

There were some "old timers" on this year's staff and some rookies and with good leadership and team work the year turned out to be a great success. This year's staff earned more money in its ads sales campaign than any before making it possible to have a bigger, more colorful and all around more creative and "wild" yearbook.

The staff is very proud of the great work and extreme effort they put forth to produce this everlasting book of memories and they hope you will agree the 1986-87 Pine Knor Yearbook, as those before it, and those to come, will be something to treasure forever.

Jesi Lambert, Bobbi Jo Gargasz and Cathy Reznor always like to stay on top of things in Yearbook.

Lisa Riede and Drew Hoeffcker diligently try to help Gigi Highland escape the sometimes traumatic experience of first period.

"I enjoyed being the Editor for the 1986-87 Yearbook Staff. I feel we had a very good year and I wish next year's Staff all the best." —Teresa Roach

The work began in the summer months before school! The staff prepared for a long year.

Vicki Riede, Lisa Sowers and Sarah Barr fight for a moment of Mr. McClelland's valuable time.

During a moment of relaxation, Vicki Riede and Gigi Highland imitate some of the lyrics and movements of today's top videos.

As editor and co-editor of this year's Staff, Teresa Roach and Andy Fair spent many dedicated hours pushing us to near perfection.

As Amy Lyle begins to go crazy from the pressures of Yearbook, Edith McFeely and Michelle Hibbard try to ease her pain.

The yearbook each year offers a new challenge. Thanks to the hard work of this year's staff, we met the challenge with great results and had an enjoyable time doing it.

Thanks to the best staff ever, and remember the donuts.

Mr. McClelland (BH)

Photographers Expose "Flashes" Of Expression.

Much of the 1986-87 Pine Knot could not have been made possible without the great creativity and technique expressed by the staff's three photographers. We would like to thank Alex Price, Chris Hannold, and Missy Fyffe for their memorable work. We couldn't have done it as well without you!

Yes sir, Seniors were the "Life of the party" never knowing when the good times should end. Yet there were also some moments of casual laid-backness! Amongst these pages are a few "Snapshots" of the good ole days! Relax Graduates, it really is over!!!

SENIORS

Senioritis set in weeks prior to Graduation for the Class of 1987. Seniors started disregarding homework and teacher's disapproving comments. Twelve years of grueling work was about to end and this class was ready for the overwhelming excitement of summer to arrive! In the meantime they had to make due-actually just plan their activities around school. Senior activities were in full swing, starting with the prom. The Junior's put on a first "CLASS" evening for the upperclassmen, an event surely to be remembered. The Sheraton Inn hosted the annual Senior Banquet. On May 12th the graduates gathered as a class of Grove City High School for one last party- and a party it definitely was. The class officers planned an elegant, yet simple dinner, with gift certificates serving as door prizes. Throughout the year this class participated in many of the school related functions such as JAM DAY. Also a priority with many Seniors were the individual parties given. Many a weekend was spent with friends partying. All in all the Seniors showed the underclassmen what being a Senior was all about! The Class of 1987 did party with style, they couldn't have better demonstrated this!!!

With

As Their Final Moments Near, The Graduates Just Want Outta Here!

The Class of 1987 left many memories behind with the graduation ceremonies that took place on June 5th. Mixed emotions were abundant as many students realized their final moments as high school students neared. Thoughts of times past were remembered, yet talk of future plans overpowered the conversation. Having spent four years of their lives in this school, the majority of the class expressed the need to move on. Actually the Seniors "JUST WANTED OUTTA HERE!" There was a definite need for the graduates to get away from the everyday life of High School—the time had come for bigger and better things. The Graduating Class of 1987 will be missed as they move on! HAPPY GRADUATION SENIORS!

By: Bobbi Jo Gargasz

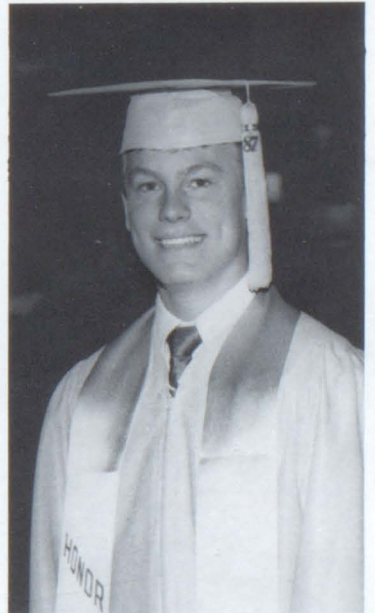

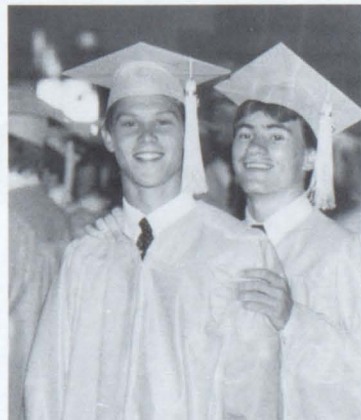

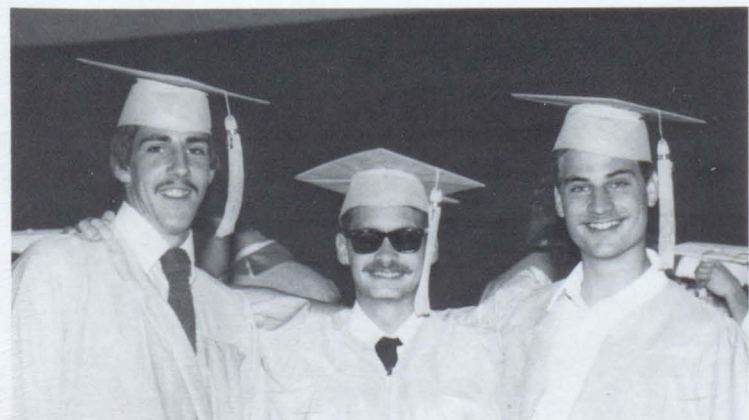

John Murdock; Valedictorian

"Being the Valedictorian of one's class is an honor most students only dream about. Unfortunately, only one person receives this honor each year. To most people being Valedictorian means four years of hard work and long hours of studying. To me it meant four years of dragging myself out of bed and getting on the bus. I'm looking forward to some real competition in college."

John Murdock

Ethan Van Til; Salutatorian

The Cessation

The days grew short and the end of the year was rapidly approaching. Students had spring fever and the faculty was starting to lag behind with their lessons. Classes seemed to get longer and more tiresome, subjects were getting more tedious and the classrooms were getting increasingly warmer. It was obvious the end of school was close and everyone knew that summer would soon be there.

The end, at times, comes hard to believe. Phrases like, "It seems like the year just started." and "Where did the year go," could be heard.

The 1987 school year held a special place in every student's heart. Remembering the good times and the bad times; hoping for brighter futures and more prosperous years is what the end of the year brings, and 1987 was no exception.

MARTHA JO SHAW

Martha,

There is no box made by God nor us but that the sides can be flattened out and the top blown off to make a dance floor on which to celebrate life.

Love,
Mom

MIKE CHRISTY

Dear Mike,

Congratulations on your graduation. We love you!
